

Library vision and strategic directions

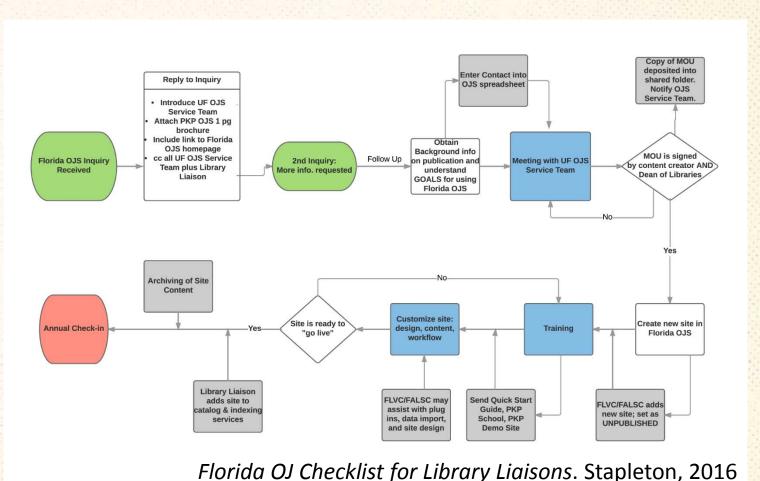

New technologies offer libraries today a chance to expand beyond content organization and provide greater support of the publishing lifecycle.

My role in Florida OJ

- Lead UF Florida OJ Service Team
- Train LiaisonLibrarians
- Florida OJ Contact for FALSC
- Promote Florida OJ to UF Community

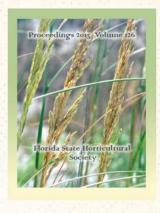

Publications of UF scholars working in Florida OJ

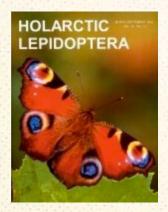

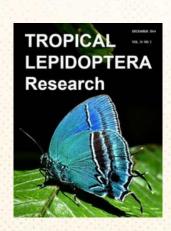

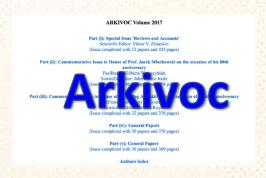

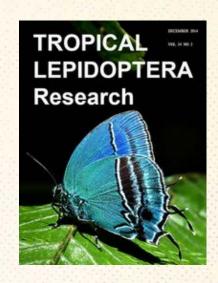

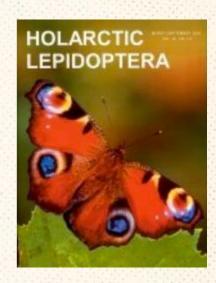

Meeting custom needs: Tropical Lepidoptera Research

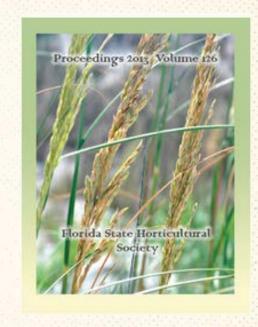

- Professional design and layout
- Online submission
- Preservation

Meeting custom needs: Proceedings of the Florida State Horticultural Society

 Enhance discoverability of OA archives

Meeting custom needs: Chemical Engineering Education

- Ongoing publication with external links to sponsoring society
- DOI registration

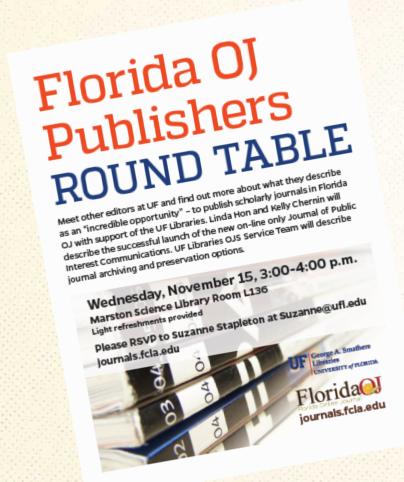

Common Goals

- Greater usage of existing online content
- Open Access content
- Sustainable publication model

Unique Concerns

- Intended use of Florida OJ
- Embargo for subscription based publications
- Metadata format and quality
- Other: File type/size, DOI registration, Print on Demand

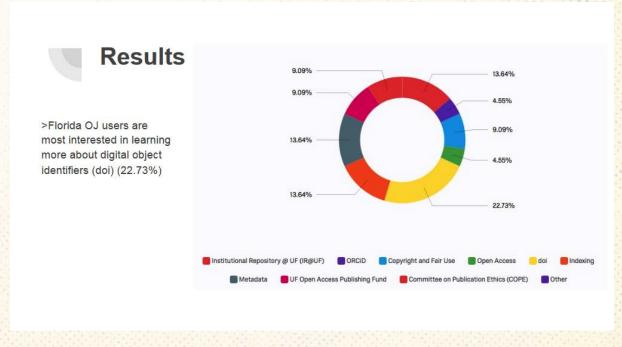

Building Community

Internship in Library Publishing

- Client satisfaction survey
- LibGuide
- Professional development of intern

Successful impact for society publishers

"I am writing this e-mail to, first, express my gratitude to the staff of the library. The circulation of the journals and visibility through Google Scholar has already greatly improved.

I think that all journal editors at the [campus unit] should take note of this opportunity, which is incredible, considering the cost or/and strings attached if one were to engage in similar cooperative agreement with a commercial publisher."

Comments from a Florida OJ Editor, 7/13/2017

Challenges for free standing publications

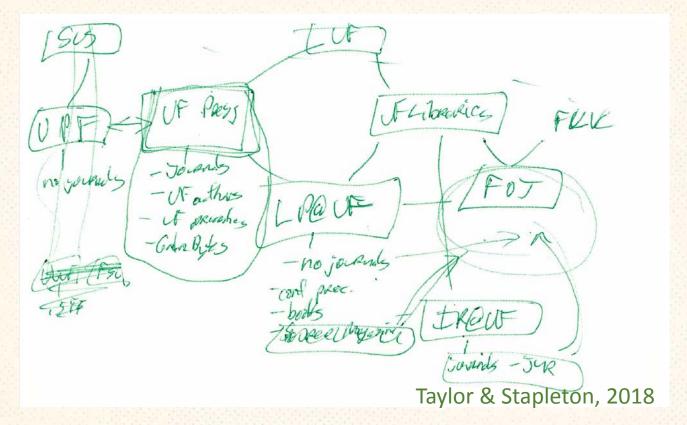

"We did not realize that we were leaving Florida OJ.... We have one (unpaid) staff member capable of using software beyond the most basic email level. We have no funding. The alliance with the University Press has provided:

- A kind of UF branding
- Options for marketing (even just the Press website)
- An operation already in place for subscription and fulfillment
- Typesetting, saving a hugely time-consuming effort for the staff member
- Experienced users of the OJ interface who can manipulate it as needed, saving the staff member from having to figure out how to circumvent its design to accomplish what she is aiming at.

This allows the editors to focus on editing rather than on production."

Comments from another Florida OJ Editor & Journal Manager, 4/18/2018

Evolution of Library Publishing

"...to ensure the chain of knowledge remains viable, transformative, and beneficial"

Acknowledgements and Credits

UF Florida OJ Service Team:

Chelsea Dinsmore
Christy Shorey
Christine Fruin (former member)
Laurie Taylor (former member)

Wilhelmina Randtke, FALSC tech support

Graduate Student Intern: Hannah Toombs

Editors and Journal Managers from Florida OJ

Cordell, T. Round-table policy cartoon, ID tcm1686. Accessed from www.cartoonstock.com

Stapleton, S. 2016. Liaison Librarian Checklist: Working with Florida OJ, Workflow diagram. http://ufdc.ufl.edu/AA00031251/00002

Taylor, L. N. & Stapleton, S. C. 2018. Visualization of the Evolving Library Publishing Relationships at the University of Florida [drawing]

University of Winnipeg. n.d. The publishing lifecycle. CCBY.

